

WAFF48 Announces New Anchor for WAFF48 News Now Charles Molineaux joins Elizabeth Gentle in July.

Huntsville, AL – WAFF48, the NBC affiliate in Huntsville, Alabama, has hired Charles Molineaux as the new co-anchor for WAFF48 News Now, the station's 4:00pm weekday Newscast.

Charles has more than 26 years of experience in local and network television in cities all across the country, including Atlanta, Denver, Miami and New York City, where he anchored CNN's live coverage of the September 11th attacks as they happened.

In addition to anchoring WAFF48 News Now, Charles will also field report during WAFF48 News at 5:00pm, 6:00pm and 10:00pm.

“It's thrilling to step into such a prominent position in such an outstanding news organization,” says Molineaux. “There's also the fact that I've been a devoted space geek since I was a kid. Just driving past the Space and Rocket Center, let alone walking through it, brings it all back.”

“Charles has impeccable credentials and a reputation as an honest, dependable and high character team player,” added Adam Henning, WAFF48 News Director. “Charles and Elizabeth have great chemistry on the set. Viewers are going to like what Charles brings them both as an anchor and a reporter.”

WAFF48 News Now premiered in September of 2011 and immediately became the most watched early afternoon newscast in the Huntsville-Decatur-Florence television market. According to Nielsen ratings data for May 2012, WAFF48 News Now has nearly four times more viewers than it's closest news competitor.

Charles Molineaux will join the WAFF48 News Team in mid-July.

Raycom Media owns WAFF 48. Raycom Media, an employee-owned company, is one of the nation's largest broadcasters and currently owns and/or operates 46 television stations in 18 states.
